MILITARY LEAVE

Fact Sheet for Public Employees

Members of our armed forces demonstrate the highest level of citizenship and our state and our nation are eternally indebted. Our soldiers and their families deserve sincere thanks for serving the call of duty.

Joe Manchin III

Governor

History has seen many sons and daughters of West Virginia sacrifice everything for this great state and this great nation. Therefore, it is with great pride and immeasurable gratitude that the Division of Personnel lends unwavering support to our members of the United States Armed Forces and their families and thanks them for their unselfish Dedication and commitment to serving their country.

Billie Jo Streyle-Anderson, Director

West Virginia Division of Personnel

DISCLAIMER

This guide is intended to be used as a reference and procedural guide for employers and employees concerning those public employees called to active duty. The general information it contains should not be construed to supersede any law, rule, or policy. In the case of any inconsistencies, the statutory and regulatory provisions will prevail.

For technical assistance concerning specific situations, employees and employers may contact the Division of Personnel's Employee Relations Section at (304) 558-3950, Extension 511.

MILITARY LEAVE

Fact Sheet for Public Employees

In an effort to assist state employees in making the transition from public employment to active duty and aid their return, the West Virginia Division of Personnel is providing this informational guide. It is designed to provide public employees and their families with answers to frequently asked questions and other useful information, including procedures regarding the call to active duty, and a checklist of action to be taken when notified of orders.

Note: The following information is derived from West Virginia Code §15-1F-1, and the West Virginia Division of Personnel Administrative Rule, Section 14.9 - Military Leave.

- I. Activation
- II. Military Leave
- III. Continuing Insurance Coverage
- IV. Reinstatement/Recall

- V. Pay Increases
- VI. Withholding
- VII. Retirement
- VIII. FMLA
- IX. Increment Payment/Annual Leave
- X. Minimum Qualifications

I. Activation

There are two types of activation a National Guard member/Reservist will incur. One is federal duty and the other is state active duty. Federal duty is essentially being activated by Executive Order of the President of the United States. State active duty is being activated by the Governor of West Virginia in time of need or crisis. Permanent state employees will be granted leave for either federal or state active duty according to West Virginia Code §15-1F-1. Temporary employees are not eligible.

Once called to report to a unit, he or she should immediately contact their immediate supervisor. An employee may provide either verbal or written notice. Please visit the Division of Personnel's website for further information.

II. Military Leave

West Virginia Code §15-1F-1(a) provides public employees hired for permanent employment are provided with thirty workdays of paid military leave per calendar year for routine training/drills. Furthermore, if public employees are called to active duty by proper federal authority, they will receive an additional thirty days of leave for each instance of call to active duty as provided in West Virginia Code §15-1F-1(b). Once leave is exhausted, they may be placed on a personal leave of absence without pay or use available annual leave. You may not carry forward any military leave hours from subsection (a) to the next calendar year. Any remaining balance of days from §15-1F-

1(a) may be added to the thirty days granted in §15-1F-1(b) upon call to federal active duty. Employees should request for military leave in accordance with agency policy.

III. Continuing Insurance Coverage

If an employee's health insurance coverage would terminate because of an approved leave of absence without pay due to military service, the employee may elect to continue the coverage after the absence begins, for the length of his or her activation upon payment of employee premiums. Reservists are covered under the government's military health plan (Tricare) after thirty-one days of active duty. On return from service, health insurance coverage will be reinstated without any waiting period or exclusions for preexisting conditions. For more information on employee health insurance follow the link to PEIA.

IV. Reinstatement/Recall

To be entitled to reinstatement you must receive a certificate of satisfactory service or general discharge. Upon return from a period of duty in the uniformed services you will be returned to the same or similar position. You will not be taken off the payroll while waiting for military orders and will return without loss of pay, status, or efficiency rating.

You may not return to work until your confirmed return date.

V. Pay

You will be entitled to any pay increase(s) for which you are eligible that occur while on active duty upon return to state employment, including any merit raises, increment pay, or other pay increases (e.g., across-the-board) you would have received normally or that others in the same position received.

VI. Withholdings

As long as you are receiving your regular pay, all withholdings, including child support and taxes, will be withheld from your check as normal. Military leave is paid as normal salary and is reported on federal W-2 forms.

VII. Retirement

Retirement contributions will continue to be withheld from wages and tenure will continue during your military service, for a maximum period of five years, or when you are reinstated to your current position. For more information concerning retirement follow the link to Consolidated Public Retirement Board.

VIII. FMLA

Time spent on military leave (paid and unpaid) is included when calculating both the twelve-month service requirement and the 1,250-hour work requirement for purposes of the Family and Medical Leave Act.

IX. Increment Payment/Annual Leave

Time spent on military leave (paid and unpaid) is included in calculating service for Increment pay and annual leave accrual rate. For employees who choose to delay their return to work, based on the duration of the period of military service, as provided for in the USERRA, such time is also included in service calculation.

X. Minimum Qualifications

Time spent on military leave without pay only qualifies toward meeting minimum training and experience requirements when the military occupational specialty is directly related to the specified training and experience required.

CHECKLIST

- Notify supervisor of call to duty.
- Complete an application for leave with pay form DOP-L 1.
- Contact the agency's benefits coordinator concerning orders and continuation of benefit coverage.
- Provide a family member or friend with copies of all submitted documentation.
- Make sure family member or friend has all information provided by military unit including a name of a contact persons at the Red Cross, telephone numbers, etc.
- Make sure a family member or friend knows your branch of service, rank, unit name, company name, battalion name, social security number, and last known location.
- Consider preparing a "Power of Attorney," particularly including employment issues, e.g., PEIA open enrollment and/or changes in beneficiary.
- If duty call is in a foreign country, immediate family may wish to obtain a current passport.

(USERRA)

The U.S. Department of Labor
Veterans Employment and Training Service

Introduction

The Department of Labor's Veterans' Employment and Training Service provides this guide to enhance the public's access to information about the application of the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA) in various circumstances. Aspects of the law may change over time. Every effort will be made to keep the information provided up-to date.

USERRA applies to virtually all employers, including the Federal Government. While the information presented herein applies primarily to private employers, there are parallel provisions in the statute that apply to Federal employers. Specific questions should be addressed to the State Director of the Veterans' Employment and Training Service listed in the government section of the telephone directory under U.S. Department of Labor.

Information about USERRA is also available on the Internet. An interactive system, "The USERRA Advisor", answers many of the most often asked questions about the law. It can be found in the "E-Laws" section of the Department of Labor's home page. The internet address is <http://www.dol.gov>.

Employment and Reemployment Rights

The Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994 (USERRA), ENACTED October 13, 1994 (Title 38 U.S.Code), Chapter 43, Sections 4301-4333, Public Law 103-353), significantly strengthens and expands the employment and reemployment rights of all uniformed service members.

Who is eligible for reemployment ?

“Service in the Uniformed Services” and “Uniformed Services” defined – (38 U.S.C. Section 4303 (13 & 16)).

Reemployment rights extend to persons who have been absent from a position of employment because of “service in the uniformed services.” “Service in the uniformed services” means the performance of duty on a voluntary or involuntary basis in a uniformed service, including:

- Active duty
- Active duty for training
- Initial active duty for training
- Inactive duty training
- Inactive duty training
- Full time National Guard duty
- Absence from work for an examination to determine a person’s fitness for any of the above types of duty
- Funeral honors duty performed by National Guard or Reserve members
- Duty performed by intermittent disaster response personnel for the Public Health Service, and approved training to prepare for such service (added by Pub. L. 107-188, June 2002). See Title 42, U.S. Code, section 300hh-11 (e).

The “uniformed Services” consist of the following:

- Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, or Coast Guard

- Army Reserve, Naval Reserve, Marine Corps Reserve, Air Force Reserve, or Coast Guard Reserve
- Army National Guard or Air National Guard
- Commissioned Corps of the Public Health Service
- Any other category of persons designated by the President in time of war or emergency.

“Brief Nonrecurrent” positions (Section 4312 (d) (1) (c))

The new law provides an exemption for pre service positions that are “brief or nonrecurring and that cannot reasonably be expected to continue indefinitely or for a significant period.”

Advance Notice (Section 4312 (a) (1)

The law requires all employees to provide their employers with advance notice of military service.

Notice may be either written or oral. It may be provided by the employee or by an appropriate officer of the branch of the military in which the employee will be serving. However, no notice is required if:

- Military necessity prevents the giving of notice; or
- The giving of notice is otherwise impossible or unreasonable.

“Military necessity” for purposes of the notice exemption is to be defined in regulations of the Secretary of Defense. These regulations will be immune from court review.

Duration of Service (Section 4312 (c))

The cumulative length service that causes a person’s absences from a position may not exceed five years.

Most types of service will be cumulatively counted in the computation of the five year period.

Exceptions: Eight categories of service are exempt from the five-year limitation. These include:

- 1) Service required beyond five years to complete an initial period of obligated service (Section 4312 (c) (1). Some military specialties, such as the Navy’s nuclear power program, require initial active service obligations beyond five years.
- 2) Service from which a person, through no fault of the person, is unable to obtain a release within the five year limit (Section 4312 (c) (2). For example, the five-year limit will not be applied to members of the Navy or Marine Corps whose obligated service dates expire while they are at sea.

Nor will it be applied when service members are involuntarily retained on active duty beyond the expiration of their obligated service date. This was the experience of some persons who served in Operations Desert Shield and Storm.

- 3) Required training for Reservists and National Guard members (Section 4312 (c) (3). The two-week annual training sessions and monthly weekend drills mandated by statute for Reservists and National Guard members are exempt from the five-year limitation. Also excluded are additional training requirements certified in writing by the Secretary of the service concerned to be necessary for individual professional development.
- 4) Service under an involuntary order to, or to be retained on, active duty during domestic emergency or 4312 (c) (4) (A)).
- 5) Service under an order to, or to remain on, active duty (other than for training) because of a war or national emergency declared by the President or Congress (Section 4312 (c) (4) (B). This category includes service not only by persons involuntarily ordered to active duty, but also service by volunteers who receive orders to active duty.
- 6) Active duty (other than for training) by volunteers supporting “operational missions” for which Selected Reservists have been ordered to active duty without their consent (Section 4312 (c) (4) (c)). Such operational missions involve circumstances other than war or national emergency for which, under presidential authorization, members of the Selected Reserve may be involuntarily ordered to active duty under Title 10, U.S.C. Section 12304. The recent U.S. military involvement in support of restoration of democracy in Haiti (Uphold Democracy”) was such an operational mission as is the current (as of 1998) operation in Bosnia (“Joint Endeavor”).

This sixth exemption for the five-year limitation covers persons who are called to active duty after volunteering to support operational missions. Persons involuntarily ordered to active duty for operational missions would be covered by the fourth exemption, above.

- 7) Service by volunteers who are ordered to active duty in support of a “critical mission or requirement” in times other than war or national emergency and when no involuntary call up is in effect (Section 4312 © (4) (D)). The Secretaries of the various military branches each have authority to designate a military operation as a critical mission or requirement.
- 8) Federal service by members of the National Guard called into action by the President to suppress an insurrection, repel an invasion, or to execute the laws of the United States (Section 4312 © (4) (E)).

Disqualifying Service (Section 4304)

When would service be disqualifying? The statute lists four circumstances:

- (1) Separation from the service with a dishonorable or bad conduct discharge.
- (2) Separation from the service under other than honorable conditions. Regulations for each military branch specify when separation from the service would be considered “other than honorable.”

- (3) Dismissal of a commissioned officer in certain situations involving a court martial or by order of the President in time of war (Section 1161 (a) of Title 10).
- (4) Dropping a individual from the rolls when the individual has been absent without authority for more than three months or who is imprisoned by a civilian court. (Section 1161 (b) of Title 10)

Reporting back to work (Section 4312 (e))

Time limits for returning to work now depend, with the exception of fitness-for-service examinations, on the duration of a person's military service.

Service of 1 to 30 days. The person must report to his or her employer by the beginning of the first regularly scheduled work day that would fall eight hours after the end of the calendar day. For example, an employer cannot require a service member who returns home at 10:00 p.m. to report to work at 12:30 AM that night. But the employer can require the employee to report for the 6:00 a.m. shift the next morning.

If due to no fault of the employee, timely reporting back to work would be impossible or unreasonable, the employee must report back to work as soon as possible.

Fitness Exam. The time limit for reporting back to work for a person who is absent from work in order to take a fitness-for-service examination is the same as the one above for persons who are absent for 1 to 30 days. This period will apply regardless of the length of the person's absence.

Service of 31 to 180 days. An application for reemployment must be submitted no later than 14 days after completion of a person's service. If submission of a timely application is impossible or unreasonable through no fault of the person, the application must be submitted as soon as possible. If the 14th day falls on a day when the offices are not open, or there is otherwise no one available to accept the application, the time extends to the next business day.

Service of 181 or more days. An application for reemployment must be submitted no later than 90 days after completion of a person's military service. If the 90th day falls on a day when the offices are not open, or there is otherwise no one available to accept the application, the time extends to the next business day.

Disability incurred or aggravated. The reporting or application deadlines are extended for up to two years for persons who are hospitalized or convalescing because of a disability incurred or aggravated during the period of military service.

The two-year period will be extended by the minimum time required to accommodate a circumstance beyond an individual's control that would make reporting within the two-year period impossible or unreasonable.

Unexcused delay. Are a person's reemployment rights automatically forfeited if the person fails to report to work or to apply for reemployment within the required time limits? No. But the person will then be subject to the employer's rules governing unexcused absences.

Documentation upon return (Section 4312 (f))

An employer has the right to request that a person who is absent for a period of service of 31 days or more provide documentation showing that:

- The person's application for reemployment is timely;
- The person has not exceeded the five-year service limitation; and
- The person's separation from service was other than disqualifying under Section 4304.

Unavailable documentation. Section: 4312 (f) (3) (A). If a person does not provide satisfactory documentation because it's not readily available or doesn't exist, the employer still must promptly reemploy the person. However, if, after reemploying the person, documentation becomes available that shows one or more of the reemployment requirements were not met, the employer may terminate the person. The termination would be effective as of that moment. It would not operate retroactively. Pension contributions. Section 4312 (f) (3) (B). Pursuant to Section 4318, if a person has been absent for military service for 91 or more days, an employer may delay making retroactive pension contributions until the person submits satisfactory documentation. However, contributions will still have to be made for persons who are absent for 90 or fewer days.

How to place eligible persons in a job

Length of Service – Section 4313(a)

Except with respect to persons who have a disability incurred in or aggravated by military service, the position into which a person is reinstated is based on the length of a person's military service.

1 to 90 days. Section 4313 (a) (1) (A) & (B). A person whose military service lasted 1 to 90 days must be "promptly reemployed" in the following order of priority:

- (1) (Section 4313 (a) (1) (A) in the job the person would have held had the person remained continuously employed, so long as the person is qualified for the job or can become qualified after reasonable efforts by the employer to qualify the person; or, (B) in the position of employment in which the person was employed on the date of the commencement of the service in the uniformed services, only if the person is not qualified to perform the duties of the position referred to in employer to qualify the person.
- (2) If the employee cannot become qualified for either position described above (other than for a disability incurred in or aggravated by the military service) even after reasonable employer efforts, the person is to be reemployed in a position that is the nearest approximation to the positions described above (in that order) which the person is able to perform, with full seniority. (Section 4313 (a) (4))

With respect to the first two positions, employers do not have the option of offering other jobs of equivalent seniority, status, and pay.

91 or more days. Section 4313 (a) (2). The law requires employers to promptly reemploy persons returning from military service of 91 or more days in the following order of priority:

- (1) Section 4313 (a) (2) (A). In the job the person would have held had the person remained continuously employed, or a position of like seniority status and pay, so long as the person is qualified for the job or can become qualified after reasonable efforts by the employer to qualify the person; or, (B) in the position of employment in which the person was employed on the date of the commencement of the service in the uniformed services, or a position of like seniority, status, and pay the duties of which the person is qualified to perform, only if the person is not qualified to perform the duties of the position referred to in subparagraph (A) after reasonable efforts by the employer to qualify the person.
- (2) Section 4313 (a) (4). If the employee cannot become qualified for the position either in (A) or (B) above: in any other position of lesser status and pay, but that most nearly approximates the above positions (in that order) that the employee is qualified to perform with full seniority.

"Escalator" position. The reemployment position with the highest priority in the reemployment schemes reflects the "escalator" principle that has been a key concept in federal veterans' reemployment legislation. The escalator principle requires that each returning service member actually step back onto the seniority escalator at the point the person would have occupied if the person had remained continuously employed.

The position may not necessarily be the same job the person previously held. For instance, if the person would have been promoted with reasonable certainty had the person not been absent, the person would be entitled to that promotion upon reinstatement. On the other hand, the position could be at a lower level than the one previously held, it could be a different job, or it could conceivably be in layoff status.

Qualification efforts. Employers must make reasonable efforts to qualify returning service members who are not qualified for reemployment positions that they otherwise would be entitled to hold for reasons other than a disability incurred or aggravated by military service.

Employers must provide refresher training and any training necessary to update a returning employee's skills in situation where the employee is no longer qualified due to technological hardship for the employer, as discussed below.

If reasonable efforts fail to qualify a person for the first and second reemployment positions in the above schemes, the person must be placed in a position of equivalent or nearest approximation and pay that the person is qualified to perform (the third reemployment position in the above schemes).

"Prompt" reemployment. Section 4313 (a). The law specifies that returning service members be "promptly reemployed." What is prompt will depend on the circumstances of each individual case. Reinstatement after weekend National Guard duty will generally be the next regularly scheduled working day. On the other hand, reinstatement following five years on active duty might require giving notice to an incumbent employee who has occupied the service member's position and who might possibly have to vacate that position.

Disabilities incurred or aggravated while in Military Service Section 4313 (a) (3).

The following three-part reemployment scheme is required for persons with disabilities incurred or aggravated while in Military Service:

- (1) The employer must take reasonable efforts to accommodate a person's disability so that the person can perform the position that person would have held if the person had remained continuously employed.
- (2) If, despite reasonable accommodation efforts, the person is not qualified for the position in (1) due to his or her disability, the person must be employed in a position of equivalent seniority, status, and pay, so long as the employee is qualified to perform the duties of the position or could become qualified to perform them with reasonable efforts by the employer.
- (3) If the person does not become qualified for the position in either (1) or (2), the person must be employed in a position that, consistent with the circumstances of that person's case, most nearly approximates the position in (2) in terms of seniority, status, and pay.

The law covers all employers, regardless of size.

Conflicting reemployment claims Section 4313 (b) (1) & (2) (A).

If two or more persons are entitled to reemployment in the same position, the following reemployment scheme applies:

- The person who first left the position has the superior right to it.
- The person without the superior right is entitled to employment with full seniority in any other position that provides similar status and pay in the order of priority under the reemployment scheme otherwise applicable to such person.

Changed Circumstances Section 4312 (d) (1) (A).

Reemployment of a person is excused if an employer's circumstances have changed so much that reemployment of the person would be impossible or unreasonable. A reduction-in-force that would have included the person would be an example.

Undue hardship Section 4312 (d) (1) (B).

Employers are excused from making efforts to qualify returning service members or from accommodating individuals with service-connected disabilities when doing so would be of such difficulty or expense as to cause "undue hardship."

Rights of reemployed persons

Seniority rights Section 4316 (a)

Reemployed service members are entitled to the seniority and all rights and benefits based on seniority that they would have attained with reasonable certainty had they remained continuously employed.

A right or benefit is seniority-based if it is determined by or accrues with length of service. On the other hand, a right or benefit is not seniority-based if it is compensation for work performed or is subject to a significant contingency.

Rights not based on seniority Section 4316 (b).

Departing service members must be treated as if they are on a leave of absence. Consequently, while they are away they must be entitled to participate in any rights and benefits not based on seniority that are available to employees on nonmilitary leaves of absence, whether paid or unpaid. If there is a variation among different types of nonmilitary leaves of absence, the service member is entitled to the most favorable treatment so long as the nonmilitary leave is comparable. For example, a three-day bereavement leave is not comparable to a two-year period of active duty.

The returning employees shall be entitled not only to non-seniority rights and benefits available at the time they left for military service, but also those that become effective during their service.

Forfeiture of rights. Section 4316 (b) (2) (A) (ii). If, prior to leaving for military service, an employee knowingly provides clear written notice of an intent not to return to work after military service, the employee waives entitlement to leave-of-absence rights and benefits not based on seniority.

At the time of providing the notice, the employee must be aware of the specific rights and benefits to be lost. If the employee lacks that awareness, or is otherwise coerced, the waiver will be ineffective.

Notice of intent not to return can waive only leave-of absence rights and benefits. They cannot surrender other rights and benefits that a person would be entitled to under the law, particularly reemployment rights.

Funding of benefits. Section 4316 (b) (4). Service members may be required to pay the employee cost, if any, of any funded benefit to the extent that other employees on leave of absence would be required to pay.

Pension/retirement plans

Pension plans. Section 4318, which are tied to seniority, are given separate, detailed treatment under the law. The law provides that:

- Section 4318 (a) (2) (A). A reemployed person must be treated as not having incurred a break in service with the employer maintaining a pension plan;
- Section 4318 (a) (2) (B). Military service must be considered service with an employer for vesting and benefit accrual purposes;
- Section 4318 (b) (1). The employer is liable for funding any resulting obligation; and
- Section 4318 (b) (2). The reemployed person is entitled to any accrued benefits from employee contributions only to the extent that the person repays the employee contributions.

Covered plan. Section 4318 . A pension plan that must comply with the requirements of the reemployment law would be any plan that provides retirement income to employees until the termination of employment or later. Defined benefits plans, defined contribution plans, and profit sharing plans that are retirement plans are covered.

Multi-employer plans. Section 4318 (b) (1). In a multi-employer defined contribution pension plan, the sponsor maintaining the plan may allocate the liability of the plan for pension benefits accrued by persons who are absent for military service. If no allocation or cost-sharing arrangement is provided, the full liability to make the retroactive contributions to the plan will be allocated to the last employer employing the person before the period of military service or, if that employer is no longer functional, to the overall plan.

Within 30 days after a person is reemployed, an employer who participates in a multi-employer plan must provide written notice to the plan administrator of the person's reemployment. (4318 (c))

Employee contribution repayment period. Section 4318 (b) (2). Repayment of employee contributions can be made over three times the period of military service but no longer than five years.

Calculation of contributions. Section 4318 (b) (3) (A). For purposes of determining an employer's liability or an employee's contributions under a pension benefit plan, the employee's compensation during the period of his or her military service will be based on the rate of pay the employee would have received from the employer but for the absence during the period of service.

Section 4318 (b) (3) (B). If the employee's compensation was not based on a fixed rate, the determination of such rate is not reasonably certain, on the basis of the employee's average rate of compensation during the 12 month period immediately preceding such period (or, if shorter, the period of employment immediately preceding such period).

Vacation pay Section 4316 (d).

Service members must, at their request, be permitted to use any vacation that had accrued before the beginning of their military service instead of unpaid leave. However, it continues to be the law that service members cannot be forced to use vacation time for military service.

Health benefits Section 4317

The law provides for health benefit continuation for persons who are absent from work to serve in the military, even when their employers are not covered by COBRA. (Employers with fewer than 20 employees are exempt for COBRA.) Section 4317 (a) (1).

If a person's health plan coverage would terminate because of an absence due to military service, the person may elect to continue the health plan coverage for up to 18 months after the absence begins or for the period of service (plus the time allowed to apply for reemployment). Whichever period is shorter. The person cannot be required to pay more than 102 percent of the full premium for the coverage. If the military service was for 30 or fewer days, the person cannot be required to pay more than the normal employee share of any premium.

Exclusions/waiting periods. Section 4317 (b). A waiting period or exclusion cannot be imposed upon reinstatement if health coverage would have been provided to a person had the person not been absent for military service. However, an exception applies to disabilities determined by the Secretary of veterans' Affairs (VA) to be service-connected.

Multi-employer. Section 4317 (a) (3). Liability for employer contributions and benefits under the multi-employer plans is to be allocated by the plan sponsor in such as the plan sponsor provides. If the sponsor makes no provision for allocation, liability is to be allocated to the last employer employing the person before the person's military service or, if that employer is no longer functional, to the plan.

Protection from discharge

Persons returning from active duty for training were not explicitly protected under the old law. Under USERRA, a reemployed employee may not be discharged without cause as follows:

- Section 4316 © (1). For one year after the date of reemployment if the person's period of military service was for more than six months (181 days or more).
- Section 4316 © (2). For six months after the date of reemployment if the person's period of military service was for 31 to 180 days.

Persons who serve for 30 or fewer days are not protected from discharge without cause. However, they are protected from discrimination because of military service or obligation.

Protection from discrimination and retaliation

Discrimination – Section 4311

Section 4311 (a). Employment discrimination because of past, current, or future military obligations is prohibited. The ban is broad, extending to most areas of employment, including:

- Hiring;
- Promotion;
- Reemployment;
- Termination; and
- benefits

Persons protected. Section 4311(a). The law protects from discrimination past members, current members, and persons who apply to be a member of any of the branches of the uniformed services.

Previously, only Reservists and National Guard members were protected from discrimination. Under USERRA, persons with past, current, or future obligations in all branches of the military are also protected.

Standard/burden of proof. Section 4311©. If an individual's past, present, or future connection with the service is a motivating factor in an employer's adverse employment action against that individual, the employer has committed a violation, unless the employer can prove that it would have taken the same action regardless of the individual's connection with the service. The burden of proof is on the employer once a prima facie case is established.

The enacted law clarifies that liability is possible when service connection is just one of an employer's reasons for this action.

To avoid liability, the employer must prove that a reason other than service connection would have been sufficient to justify its action.

Both the standard and burden of proof now set out in the law apply to all cases, regardless of the date of the cause of action, including discrimination cases arising under the predecessor ("VRR") law.

Reprisals

Employers are prohibited from retaliating against anyone:

- who files a complaint under the law;
- who testifies, assists or otherwise participates in an investigation or proceeding under the law; or
- who exercises any right provided under the law.
- Whether or not the person has performed military service (section 4311(b)).

How the law is enforced

Department of Labor

Regulations. Section 4331 (a). The Secretary of Labor is empowered to issue regulations implementing the statute. Previously, the Secretary lacked such authority. However, certain publications issued by the U.S. Department of Labor had been accorded "a measure of weight" by the courts.

Veterans' Employment and Training Service. Reemployment assistance will continue to be provided by the Veterans' Employment and Training Service (VETS) of the Department of Labor. Section 4321. VETS investigate complaints and attempts to resolve them. Filing of complaints with VETS is optional. Section 4322.

Access to documents. Section 4326 (a). The law gives VETS a right of access to examine and duplicate employer and employee documents that it considers relevant to an investigation. VETS also have the right of reasonable access to interview persons with information relevant to the investigation.

Subpoenas. Section 4326 (b). The law authorizes VETS to subpoena the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of documents relating to any matter under investigation.

Government-assisted court actions

Section 4323 (a) (1). Persons whose complaints are not successfully resolved by VETS may request that their complaints be submitted to the Attorney General for possible court action. If the Attorney General is satisfied that a complaint is meritorious, the Attorney General may file a court action on the complainant's behalf.

Private court actions Section 4323 (a).

Individuals continue to have the option to privately file court actions. They may do so if they have chosen not to file a complaint with VETS, have chosen not to request that VETS refer their complaint to the Attorney General, or have been refused representation by the Attorney General.

Double damages. Section 4323 (d) (1) ©. Award of back pay or lost benefits may be doubled in cases where violations of the law are found to be "willful." "Willful is not defined in the law, but the law's legislative history indicates the same definition that the U.S. Supreme Court has adopted for cases under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act should be used. Under that definition, a violation is willful if the employer's conduct was knowingly or recklessly in disregard of the law.

Fees. Section 4323 (h) (2). The law, at the court's discretion, allows for awards of attorney fees, expert witness fees, and other litigation expenses to successful plaintiffs who retain private counsel. Also, the law bans charging of court fees or costs against anyone who brings suit (4323 © (2) (A)).

Declaratory judgments. Section 4323 (f). Only persons claiming rights under the law may bring lawsuits. According to the law's legislative history, its purpose is to prevent employers, pension plans, or unions from filing actions for declaratory judgments to determine potential claims of employees.
